

2008 Oktoberfest Zinzinnati

Sunday, 21 September 2008

Like most of my Oktoberfest photos, they usually take a back seat to spending time with friends and family and enjoying the festival. This year was no different. I spent most of my time running back and forth between the different beer stands and waiting in long lines for Helmut's butter rum pretzels. The festival was fantastic and in between my consumption of beer, I managed to shoot a couple of crowd shots. You can view the gallery here.