

2009 Balluminaria

Tuesday, 05 January 2010

The great weather at Balluminaria 2009 meant that there were three times as many people as the previous year. With my late arrival, it was hard to find a preferred location. My patience paid off in the end, when a large group left at once, opening up a front spot against Mirror Lake to set up my equipment. Since the lake wasn't frozen this year, the reflection of the balloons was dramatically improved. It is a great event that I have made a point to attend over the past couple of years. You can view the new gallery here.